

Tatnall School

Introduction

The Tatnall School is an independent, coeducational, college preparatory day school situated on a pastoral 110-acre campus in Greenville, Delaware, near Wilmington. Tatnall is composed of four academic divisions that enroll students from age 3 through Grade 12. The school's mission is to provide students with an excellent education in a family atmosphere. At Tatnall, a caring faculty creates an environment that nurtures curiosity and encourages students to grow in maturity and self-esteem. In their concern for the total individual, our faculty recognize and respect each student's unique intellectual, emotional, social, physical, and spiritual needs and gifts. A Tatnall graduate is prepared to succeed as a college or university student and to assume the important role of a responsible member of society in all its diversity. The Tatnall School remains mindful of the roots that serve as an anchor to keep focused on the school's basic objectives, while allowing the flexibility to explore the opportunities ahead. The Tatnall School connects the dreams of every parent and the aspirations of every child. Life-long bonds, critical attitudes and essential skills are forged through the sharing of a common journey under the guidance and influence of engaged, caring adults.

Extracurriculars

Sports is an integral part of the development of young men and women, and also provides a wholesome physical outlet following a rigorous academic schedule. All Tatnall students are required to participate in a Fall Sport. Twenty-two special interest clubs meet during the lunch period.

Universities Admitted

Princeton University, Boston University, Carnegie Mellon University, Cornell University, Duke University, Georgetown University, Georgia Institute of Technology, New York University, Pennsylvania University, Stanford University, University of Michigan, etc.
